Nostalgic Look Back: What Was Princeton Doing in August, 1874?

"Increasing burdens of taxation," a form of government that is "far too complex for so small a town," and "hotels and taverns which had degenerated into mere tippling shops" to the extent that borough council refused to grant them renewal of their liquor licenses. Subtraction of a century from the history of a pleasant residential community does not necessarily mean that in a less frenzied era, it led a utopian existence devoid of any municipal problems. A bit of intriguing research into history reveals that Princeton, in August of 1874, was experiencing all of the foregoing problems.

Princeton 100 Years Ago

The Borough was struggling with a newly-revised charter which required the election of eight council members to govern its populace numbering barely more than 3,000—a ratio which, if maintained through the ensuing hundred years, would today mean the presence of 32 council members in Borough Hall to guide the destinies of the municipality's 12,000 residents. Assorted other officials on the Princeton scene a century ago ranged from a mayor, assessor, collector, treasurer, surveyor, solicitor, judge of elections, three commissioners of appeal in cases of taxation, a marshal and a pound-keeper.

A contemporary historian, John F. Hageman, comments sharply that "the charter is too complex for so small a town. . .it necessarily involves litigation and expense to maintain and enforce the ordinances that are attempted to be framed in accordance with it.

"It is gradually becoming more and more onerous by increasing the burdens of taxation." Hageman continues in his well-regarded, two-volume "History of Princeton". "There are, however, some advantages to be secured by it. It is like a garment cut much too large for the person who is to wear it, but the town may grow up to the dimesnsions of this charter in time."

Compromise on Taxes. Among the theoretical rights with which the mayor and council were endowed by the new charter was ability to tax all the land and buildings of the College of New Jersey (as of 1896, Princeton University) and Princeton Theological Seminary on an equal basis with all other property. The two educational institutions, naturally, promptly appealed the matter to the State Legislature, and were forthwith upheld. In recognition of the municipal benefits extended to it, ranging from pavements and gas lights to fire and police protection, the college then agreed to a voluntary contribution equal to 10 percent of the borough tax.

Accounts of contemporary living do not report in detail why, nearly a decade after the end of the Civil War, a sufficient number of the eitizenry began to give the town an undesirable reputation for boisterous drinking. Council had for some years been issuing licenses for selling liquor to hotels, oyster and ale shops. In the former category were the Nassau Hotel, the nearby Mansion House (both opposite the First Presbyterian Church) and a house on the east corner of Harrison Street.

It's Our Anniversary! Princeton Was Given Its Name 250 Years Ago

Although a little colony of about half a dozen families of the Society of Friends settled in this vicinity about 1696, the name of Princeton was not given to the community until 1724—just 250 years ago.

Hageman's "History of Princeton," Vol. I, reports that Nathaniel Fitz Randolph, who was born near here in 1703, "made an entry in his private journal on the 28th day of December, 1758, as follows:

"'Princeton first named at the raising of the first house built there by James Leonard, A.D. 1724. Whitehead Leonard the first child born at Princeton, 1725.'"

Hageman comments: "Though no reason is given for calling it Princeton, there seems to be none for doubting the reliability of Mr. Fitz Randolphs' journal." Elsewhere, Hageman speculates that Kingston is, in name, at least, an older village than Princeton; and that with Queenston "next" (the present intersection of Nassau and Harrison streets), Princeton followed in proper sequence.

As V. Lansing Collins wrote in "Princeton Past and Present," it "obviously points to the ancient loyalty of this part of Colonial Jersey to the British Crown."

Too Much Tippling. In 1874, Hageman reports, they had "become disreputable and inadequate to meet the demands of the public; had, indeed, degenerated into mere tippling shops, the main interest and source of revenue centering in the bar, while the table and the rooms for lodging were greatly neglected." In a word, he reports, "they failed to answer the purpose of their origin."

In retribution, Borough Council refused to renew licenses of any of the applicants. This forerunner of national prohibition (which lasted just a year) did not, Hageman reports a shade ungrammatically, mean that "any less liquor was sold and drank in the town than under the licensed houses," but the effect on the latter was highly beneficial in that the Mansion House was converted to private use and the Nassau Hotel "was refitted with new furniture and a new landlord," the change of heart winning a liquor license the following year.

Popular irritation with the town's existing hotels then led directly to formation of a corporation which would undertake construction of "a public house in which the guests could be comfortably entertained and by which visitors might be induced to abide in the town for a few days." In 1874, the "Princeton Hotel Company" was formed; the incorporators were Ashbel Green, Henry M. Alexander, Edward Howe, James Vandeventer, Lyman H. Atwater and William Harris.

In due course, the University Hotel arose at the corner of Nassau Street and Railroad Avenue (University Place), houses belonging to a Dr. A. Alexander and Edward Stockton being removed elsewhere, as was frequently the custom in those days—rather than resorting to the unthriftworthy decision to raze existing dwellings.

"Beautiful. Magnificent." The impact of the new hotel upon the Princeton community was instantly beneficial. "Too much cannot be said," Hageman observed with utmost enthusiasm, "in praise of this beautiful and magnificent public house. No outlay of money has ever done so much for Princeton."

Built of red pressed brick with brown stone facings in Victorian Gothic style, the University Hotel was hailed as "ornamental and imposing in its appearance, comparing favorably with the numerous grand public buildings of the college and the seminary." It was credited with being "of special benefit and attraction to the stranger and visitor to the friends of the institutions who desire to come with their families and spend a day or a season with them."

Principal underwriter of the hotel was Col. William Libbey, who subscribed to the bulk of the stock issued in the amount of $100,000. Hageman's history eugolizes him "not only as the real founder of this institution but also, the princely benefactor of Princeton, whose monory will always be cherished with honor and gratitude."

In another publication of a somewhat later era, Col. Libbey did not fare as well. Owner of the residence which still stands on Bayard Lane, at the northern entrance to Greenholm, he and his wife were hosts one evening at a gala party for one of their daughters. A New York publication whose request to have a reporter present at the occasion was rejected by the family, wrote that "Col. and Mrs. William Libbey gave a dance in their large and ugly house for their large and ugly daughter."

What's in a Name? The journal, it is unabashedly admitted here, was a scandal sheet called Town Topics. Early in the present century it was persuaded to cease publishing because its policy of selling advertisements to various individuals with the understanding that it would in return withhold somewhat juicy bits of information about them had gotten out of hand. Three or four decades elapsed between the demise of New York's Town Topics and the contemporary Princeton publication, whose founding editors in 1946 had never heard of the original, and hit upon the name through sheer coincidence.

The University Hotel, plans for which were first made just a century ago, graced the corner of Nassau Street and Railroad Avenue through the final quarter of the 19th century. A contemporary account noted that "the parlors, the dining rooms, smoking room and office on the first floor are finished and furnished in exquisite taste and are ample in size, impressing everyone who enters the house with the luxurious comfort and elegance of the establishment."

"LARGEST AND MOST IMPOSING:" When the John C. Green School of Science was built a century ago, it took rank as no. 1 on the college campus. Located "near Nassau Street on the Penn's Neck Road, known as Washington Street," it was soon doubled in the size shown here and stood majestically until destroyed by fire in 1928.

The McCosh Era. If the town of Princeton was enhanced by addition of the University Hotel, the decade of the 1870s was a golden one for the College of New Jersey under guidance of Dr. James McCosh, who had come to assume the presidency in 1868 from his faculty post at Queen's College, Belfast, Ireland. Intriguingly, the man who Hageman credits with an "administration dazzling with its brilliancy," was the college trustees' second choice. Their original selection had been the Rev. Dr. William H. Green, but he preferred to remain as Professor of Hebrew at Princeton Theological Seminary.

In the decade following Dr. McCosh's arrival here, Hageman wrote that "it seems as though a creative power more than human has been exerted to change the ancient order of things. He has had accorded to him, by the faculty and trustees, almost absolute power" and "has hardly been thwarted in any of his cherished plans."

Physical changes on the college campus in the early years of the '70s were constant, and additions were numerous. In less than a decade, these included the Observatory, the University Gymnasium, Dickinson Hall, Reunion Hall, Witherspoon Hall, the Chancellor Green Library and the John C. Green School of Science.

The Borough of Princeton, a century ago, had a permanent population of some 2,800 souls (plus some 600 students) and, Hageman reports, five principal streets: Nassau, Mercer, Stockton, Canal and Witherspoon. Canal, a "lively and dusty street," was once a bustling thoroughfare because of the combined traffic of the water way and the old Camden and Amboy railroad, but faded as the routes of freight and passenger traffic changed with the passing years.

The Township of Princeton, a small municipality with a big future, played little part in the Princeton of a century ago. The question of consolidation was a half-century in the future and there was little thought of duplication of municipal services.

There was, in 1874, only one common bond between Borough and Township—other than use by the latter of the Princeton Fire Department's services, as is the case today. A hundred years ago, the Township chipped in with the Borough to help maintain a common jail on Hullfish Street.

A small stone building of two stories that was by then more than 30 years old, it was no longer looked upon as a fit place to detain prisoners. Improvement and some enlargement were advocated, Hageman noting with sound logic that "it is important to a good police department to have a suitable and secure place of confinement at hand."

Probable Demise Of Telebus, Need For Utilities For PCH Occupy Princeton Township Committee At August Meeting

Petitioners seeking quick Township Committee action on several ordinances were disappointed Monday night. For Paul and Nancy Draper, who requested an ordinance allowing them to double the fare for Telebus to $1, Committee's decision to refer the matter to the Joint Transportation Advisory Committee means that resumption of Telebus service, suspended since last Friday, is unlikely in the near future.

For Princeton Community Housing and its consultant, Alvin E. Gershen, delays on two ordinances that would bring water and electricity lines to the PCH construction site on Bunn Drive were not quite so crucial, although Mr. Gershen warned that any substantial further delays could drastically upset the construction and occupancy timetables.

The Drapers, the operators of the dial-a-ride service, have been meeting with various municipal officials to gain support for a doubling of the 50-cent fare, a reduction of Saturday hours of operation, and for permission to use outside advertising. Committee told them to discuss the matter further with the Joint Transportation Committee.

The Drapers were also expected to approach Borough Council about their troubled service at its meeting this Wednesday night. Council was also expected to refer them back to the Transportation Committee for more study.

In the meantime the Drapers have taken the position that they cannot continue losing money at the current fare schedule. So the white and blue Mercedes bus sits idle and could continue to do so for a long time: In order to change the fare a new ordinance has to be passed in both Borough and Township, and that means at least two public meetings in each.

Elderly Affected. The fare issue is complicated by several factors, as Borough Mayor Robert Cawley explained in his weekly press conference Tuesday. "Some people believe Telebus should be run with less control. Others feel the public interest is served better by a controlled price," said Mayor Cawley. "I'm taking the former position, that the market should decide the price."

Many people, the Mayor said, are still skeptical that Telebus can break even with a $1 fare. "Maybe a subsidy is the only way one of these services can operate," said Mr. Cawley, "but that's highly unlikely. It's a tremendous escalation of public commitment."

One of the problems for both Borough and Township is that senior citizens now have no low-cost, door-to-door transportation, since Crosstown 62 was dropped after the advent of Telebus.

"Maybe we were naive in relying on Telebus for the elderly," said Mr. Cawley. "One solution may be to provide direct subsidies to the elderly, in the form of transportation stamps, that they can use for taxi service. That would involve a substantial subsidy but probably less than Crosstown 62."

Heel Dragging?. Apart from the woes of Telebus, Township Committee concentrated much of its remaining time on the problems of bringing water and power up Bunn Drive to the PCH building site, where construction has been progressing since Memorial Day.

Again, the problems are complicated. Committee was ready to pass an ordinance authorizing construction of a 5,000-foot line from Harrison Street up Bunn Drive. Another possibility has arisen, however, in running the line across the property of Dr. William Kleinberg, and connecting with the Mount Lucas Road main–a distance of only 1,800 feet.

As these possibilities are being weighed, however, Mr. Gershen and PCH insist, the Elizabethtown Water Company is dragging its heels in ordering the pipe and other hardware necessary to construct the line. "The water company won't order these long lead-time items without either a $60,000 deposit from PCH or an ordinance from the Township," said Mr. Gershen.

"This is a critical point for PCH," he said. "We can't afford to pay that deposit so we need that ordinance soon or else we'll be stuck without adequate water at the construction site."

Above or Below? Committee also tabled the ordinance on the power line up Bunn Drive until information is obtained from the Public Utilities Commission on the possible means of assessing costs for underground installation. Committee would prefer that this line, and all subsequent extensions of electric service, be placed underground rather than on poles.

According to current regulation the cost differential between above and below ground lines, $80,000 or so in this case, is borne solely by the property owners abutting the underground line. Committee sentiment was in favor of applying the cost to the total utility rate base.

But it awaited word from the PUC. And Princeton Community Housing waited in turn. "Electricity is not quite as crucial," said Mr. Gershen.

"We already have a temporary line running across Dr. Kleinberg's property. I might add that Dr. Kleinberg has been most considerate and generous." PCH secured the temporary easement from him at no charge.

Telebus Blues

Remember the old Kingston Trio song about Charley on the MTA, who wasn't allowed off the subway because he couldn't pay the nickel fare increase? Well, Telebus has generated some woeful tunes of its own.

At Township Committee Monday night Mrs. Barbara Cohen, 76 Herrontown Road, spoke of the difficulties the dial-a-ride service has in meeting demands from one end to the other of Princeton Township. "My daughter ordered the Telebus at 4 at the Shopping Center. It finally came at 4:30 and then took her all over the other end of town and didn't get her home until 5:40. She wondered if she would ever get off that bus."

Calls to the Telebus phone number are answered by a tape recorder with another sad refrain: "Telebus stopped Friday, August 2, until Princeton governments act to increase our fare structure to at least break even. Requests made three weeks ago have seen no action.

"We are very sorry to disappoint all of you who have enjoyed using Telebus and particularly those who are dependent upon us. We hope some quick action will put us back on the road soon."

STEVEN PEARSON DIES

In Washington Crash. A car crash near Port Angeles, Washington, on July 25 claimed the life of Steven Avery Pearson, 25, of 39 Tyson Lane. He was a passenger in a car that went out of control and left the highway, killing him instantly.

Mr. Pearson was on a brief vacation, visiting fellow students from Rutgers Law School who are working in a legal assistance project for American Indians in the Seattle-Tacoma area. He had set off for a few days of hiking and camping on the Olympic Peninsula where some of his friends were to join him the following weekend.

Mr. Pearson was enrolled in a four-year program leading to degrees both in law and in city and regional planning at Rutgers University. He had completed one year at the law school and one year at the planning school. He was also employed as a legal assistant in the firm of Mezey and Mezey in New Brunswick.

A 1966 graduate of Princeton High School, he received a degree in history from Yale University in 1970. He served in the United States Army between September, 1970, and April, 1972, with assignments as an instructor at the Aberdeen Proving Ground in Maryland and the Redstone Arsenal in Alabama. He was awarded the Army Commendation Medal in March, 1972, for meritorious performance of duty.

A bicycle enthusiast, he cycled 4,000 miles throughout Europe between his Army service and the time he entered law school.

Musical Interests. He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church and sang in the choir there from 1962 to 1966. He sang with the choir at Princeton High School for three years, accompanying it on the European tour in the summer of 1964 and serving as its president in 1965-66.

While at Yale in 1967, he sang the role of the Traveller in Benjamin Britten's opera, "Curlew River." He appeared in a New Haven performance and a New York premiere of the work. In addition, Mr. Pearson was a member of a solo quartet at the United Church on the Green in New Haven, under the direction of Paul Jordan.

He is survived by his parents, Richard and Janet Pearson; his sisters, Pamela Grossman and Susan; his brother, Richard Jr.; and his grandparents, Dorothy and Frederick Mueller of East Hartland, Conn.

Interment was in the Princeton Cemetery with services for the immediate family under the guidance of the Rev. Robert P. Montgomery. A musical service in memoriam is planned for his friends and family in September.

Friends who wish may contribute to the Steven Avery Pearson Foundation or to some other charitable organization of their choice. The Foundation has just been organized and will be operated exclusively for charitable and educational purposes including, in particular, the support of legal assistance programs in which Mr. Pearson had shown great interest while attending Rutgers. The Foundation may be addressed in care of Smith, Stratton, Wise and Heber, Box 1154 Princeton.

Thunder, lightning and heavy downpours have punctuated the summer humidity during the past week, with better than two inches of rain breaking up the incipient drought. Friday's contribution of .72 inches, with another 1.33 falling in a period of about 3 hours on Sunday.

More could be on the way by Thursday, the Man says, as higher humidity replaces the pleasant weather earlier in the week. Temperature readings in the 90's may be a part of the past. July is traditionally a good deal hotter in these parts than August.

MINIBIKE BIG TROUBLE

For 15-Year-Old. A minibike rider was arrested Monday at about 12:10 p.m. on the Great Road near Mountain Avenue and charged with operating an unlicensed motor vehicle and resisting arrest.

Township Patrolman Anthony Gaylord arrested the 15-year-old on the first charge. As the policeman and the youth were waiting for a service truck to remove the minibike, the youth suddenly started walking off down the road with his bike.

According to police reports Patrolman Gaylord ordered him to stop. The youth responded with profane language and had to be physically restrained and carried back to the patrol car. He was released in custody of his parents.

SWIM CLUB HIT AGAIN

By Trespassers. The Broadmead Swimming Club, which has been a frequent haunt of vandals and moonlight swimmers, was visited after hours on July 28 by six juveniles and one adult. They were spotted and apprehended by Patrolman Peter J. Savelli.

Richard W. Hall, 19, of 5 Pine Street, was charged with trespassing on private property and released on his own recognizance. The six juveniles were released in the custody of their parents. "We're keeping a close eye on this pool," said Chief Fred Porter of Township Police.

SCHOOL COOK CHARGED

With Disturbance. Franklin Haldeman, 41, a cook at the Columbus Boychoir School, was arrested July 27 for causing a disturbance in the kitchen while under the influence of alcohol. The complaint was signed by a fellow worker. The defendant was released in the custody of a clergyman.

3 CHILDREN PRAISED

For Reporting Crime. An early evening visit to Nassau Street last Saturday turned into a harrowing experienced for a 14-year old boy and his two sisters, ages 9 and 12.

Shortly before 8 o'clock, the children reported to police, they were molested by a man who made indecent remarks and tried to proposition one of them into performing an improper sex act. One of the children rushed to a nearby telephone and called Borough Police. The investigation led to the arrest of Eugene Martini, 56, a Princeton resident with no known address.

"It was remarkable that these three kids had the presence of mind to initiate a call to police headquarters under these conditions," said Chief Michael Carnevale.

The defendant, who the chief said had a record that included numerous arrests for public intoxication and disorderly behavior, was scheduled to appear in Borough Court this Wednesday. Patrolman William Hunter responded to children's call for aid and made the arrest.

DRUG CHARGE ISSUED

Against Princeton Man. Raymond Fisher, 28, of 25 Palmer Square, was arrested at 6:15 p.m. Monday by Patrolman William Fitch and Captain Theodore Lewis, acting on an arrest warrant forwarded to them by Lawrence Township Police.

The warrant charged Mr. Fisher with possession of marijuana. He was released to Lawrence Township police.

Buxton's Charges. James Attenborough, 22, no known address, was arrested last Thursday by Patrolman William Fitch and charged with defrauding an innkeeper. He was scheduled to appear in court Wednesday.

The complainant in the case was the manager of Buxton's ice cream store, who charged that Mr. Attenborough had eaten at Buxton's July 28 and had then left without paying the bill.

NO HITCHHIKING!

No Kidding! A 20-year old Trenton man found out the hard way last week that Meter Officer Douglas Drummond was not kidding when he said hitchhiking is prohibited on Borough streets.

On Wednesday, July 31, Officer Drummond twice issued warnings to Franklin T. Blum, of Chambers Street, Trenton, who was hitching on Nassau Street. Mr. Blum ignored both warnings and then was issued a summons. According to the police report, Mr. Blum became infuriated, tore the summons to shreds and threw it down in the street.

Officer Drummond, by this time assisted by Detective Anthony Ranfone, issued another summons, this one for littering. Mr. Blum was scheduled to appear in court Wednesday to face both charges.

JUST SITTING THERE

Two Chairs Stolen. Two chairs sitting out in front of ANJAC Decorating Service at 256 Nassau Street were reported stolen between 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. July 30. Patrolman David Alston investigated the theft of the chairs, valued at $50.

RADAR GUN NETS SIX

For Excessive Speed. The hand-held radar gun or speed gun that Borough Police used for spot checks on motorists played a part in the arrests of six area residents. Only one tried to argue with the speed gun's word in Municipal Court Monday. Judge Philip Carchman took the side of the speed gun.

The speeders included Jeanne M. Miller, 54, of Reading Boulevard, Belle Mead, ordered to pay a fine and cost of $19; Arthur C. Downs, 40, of Bedle Street, Belle Mead, $18; Michael D. Bell, 33, of 180 Jefferson Road, $33; Chi Bok Chow, 17, of 14 Slayback Drive, Princeton Junction, $22; Alfred N. Concilio, 38, of 173 Mansgrove Road, $15; and Michael S. Casserly, 17, of 54 Cuyler Road, $17.

Patrolmen Kerry Klink and William Huntere were the arresting officers.

RUBBER CHECK PASSED

At Violations Bureau. Susan Courtleigh, 18, of Greenholm, was arrested last Thursday by Detective Charles Harris and charged with issuing a worthless check in the amount of $250.

According to police, the check was passed to the Violations Bureau, and represented bail money for another defendant. Ms. Courtleigh is scheduled to answer the charge in Borough Court August 21.

BACK TO BALTIMORE

Runaway Returned. A 15-year-old girl whiling away time in Palmer Square at 10 a.m. Sunday was questioned by police and reunited with her parents when it was discovered that she had run away from her home in Baltimore.

The action by Patrolmen Victor Fasanella and Peter Hanley represents part of continued police efforts to spot runaways, said Chief Michael Carnevale. "Princeton is a community which readily attracts these runaways," he said.

"We haven't forgotten what happened in Texas some time ago," said Chief Carnevale, referring to the mass murders there. "Too many people have taken the attitude that if the parents of these children don't care, then they shouldn't either. I hope it's reassuring to parents that police are interested in young people."

AGREEMENT REACHED

On Campaign Financing Reform. Certain areas of agreement have been acknowledged between the gradually-developing position of Rep. Peter H. B. Frelinghuysen, the Congressman from this District, and the goals of Common Cause regarding reforms dealing with campaign finance legislation.

A meeting in Rep. Frelinghuysen's Morristown office was prompted by an article in the Morris County Daily Record that stated: "Common Cause has expressed opposition to Frelinghuysen's position because the Congressman has declared himself against public financing" and "does not support the campaign finance law." Both the Congressman and New Jersey Common Cause agreed that these statements were inaccurate and held the meeting to determine the facts.

David Pullen, Mr. Frelinghuysen's legislative aide, met with Jack Stearns of Madison and James Thornton of Princeton, Common Cause coordinators for the 5th District, and other members of the citizens' lobby from Somerville, Short Hills and Morristown. Discussed were viewpoints vital to campaign reform legislation: establishment of a Federal Elections Commission, funding for Congressional candidates, and limits of campaign contributions.

Concerning a Federal Elections Commission, Mr. Frelinghuysen has endorsed the Frenzel-Fascell amendment that Common Cause vigorously supports. The proposed Commission would consist of six members nominated by Congress, appointed by the President, and confirmed by the Senate. It would act independently, with strong powers to enforce campaign laws.

Common Cause is also concerned with improving the system of Congressional campaign financing. The Anderson-Udall amendment would establish a system under which Congressional candidates in the general election would receive public funds to match small private contributions up to $50 per donor, with no more than one-third of a candidate's total spending limit coming from public funds. Common Cause believes that this "mixed system" would remove special influence of big money contributions in politics.

Ceilings on donations from both individuals and groups were also discussed. Mr. Pullen stated that Mr. Frelinghuysen favors individual contributions limited to about $500, and a group limitation of $3,000.

Common Cause wholeheartedly supports this viewpoint which has been sponsored as an amendment by Representative Conte. This amendment would limit group donations to $3,000 during the primary and general elections for a total of $6,000 throughout the campaign as opposed to the present Congressional bill that establishes $5,000 and $10,000 limits.

PLANNERS CRITICIZED

For 'Puzzling' Policies. The West Windsor Planning Board Advisory Committee has sharply criticized the Planning Board in a letter to Chairman Frank Stiefel. The non-voting advisory group charged that the Planning Board had excluded them from participation in development of the West Windsor Township Master Plan; had cut off further public discussion of the Master Plan; and had chosen to disregard previously-agreed upon planning concepts and to promulgate instead a plan reflecting the status qua prior to the present moratorium on construction.

"The time between now and November 30, when the moratorium expires, is a critical period," wrote the nine members of the advisory committee. "The Master Plan which emerges can either be a document which incorporates the best planning concepts, the varied experience and expertise within the Township, and which has the broadest possible public understanding and support.

"Or it can be a document lacking in sound planning concepts, drafted essentially in secret, and having only the most limited public understanding and support."

The committee said its concern was non-partisan. "We have always understood our role to be that of fully participating members in all respects except for voting on official actions," the letter to Mr. Stiefel said.

Dated July 31, the letter said that the Planning Board had followed a "responsible and progressive course" in development of the Master Plan, but that this course was suddenly and inexplicably changed. "What opportunity now exists for the Planning Board Advisory Committee and the general public to react to any new criteria prior to preparation of the final Master Plan Document?"

Outside Pressure? The advisory committee said the cause of this shift in policies was "puzzling." It offered one possible explanation:

"The fact that this shift occurred on the heels of strong pressure by large landowners and other speculators to amend certain aspects of the working draft circulated for public discussion, leads to speculation as to whether or not there is any connection between these two events. The fact that subtle hints of personal lawsuits and other means of intimidation have occured against certain Planning Board members enhances speculation of this sort."

To remedy the present situation, the advisory committee urged the Planning Board to take the following actions:

- "That the Planning Board advisors and the general public be informed as to the concepts and criteria now in effect for developing the Master Plan. To the extent that a given concept is in dispute, the public should understand the essence of the issue and alternatives under consideration."
- "That you set forth for the general public the specific schedule now being followed leading to final adoption of the Master Plan. Specific opportunities for public input should be highlighted. To the extent that a major shift in concept has occurred, there should be opportunity for public input prior to preparation of any final version."
- "That the Planning Board Advisory Committee henceforth be included in all deliberations of the Planning Board, whether public or executive session."

The signers of the letter were Jeff Lawlor, Herb Horowitz, Ruth Finkelstein, Robert Bartolini, Peggy Blackburn, Tom Smith, Charles Ascher, Art Kahn and Richard Dahl.

LWV Also Writes. In another open letter to the West Windsor Planning Board, the West Windsor Unit of the League of Women Voters voiced approval for two proposals made by Planning Consultant Charles Agle. The league supported the provision for diversity of housing, saying that "this balance in housing is necessary so that those wishing to dwell in other than the large four and five bedroom houses now being built in West Windsor are able to do so."

The letter from the League stated that "Mr. Agle's proposal of limited development on prime agricultural land seems to us to be an important, farsighted approach to preservation of an important natural resource."

The League letter urged careful consideration of waste disposal problems associated with development. "The absence of sewers in areas of poor and marginal septic suitability must be considered, as must the growing problems of solid waste disposal. The West Windsor Landfill is at best a short-term solution to the solid waste problem, and prospects of a county facility have been subject to continual delay."

The League noted that no provision for bike paths and walkways was included in the proposed Master Plan and urged the Planning Board to consider them.

The letter was signed by Mrs. Christina Hajian, chairwoman of the West Windsor Unit.

MIGRANT WORK AIDED

By State Grant. The Family Service Agency of Princeton has received a grant of $6,438 to provide professional social work services to migrant farm workers in Mercer and Middlesex counties. The grant was made by the urban and rural health service of the New Jersey State Department of Health.

Conducting the program, which will run through the fiscal year ending June 30, 1975, is William Rhoads, director of the Hightstown-East Windsor office of the Family Service Agency.

Old School Building in Cranbury Will Be Saved; Will Serve as Center for Varied Cultural Activities

SPARED THE FINAL BELL: The Old School in Cranbury, which has been vacant since construction of the new facility directly behind it, has been leased by Cranbury Landmarks, Inc., a non-profit group that hopes to turn the school into an art and cultural center. Four tenants have already taken subleases in the building, which was constructed in 1896. The Cranbury Board of Education had previously said it would demolish the school unless a suitable use could be found for it.

After several years of struggle and frustration, efforts to prevent the demolition of the Old School building in Cranbury have succeeded. A non-profit corporation called Cranbury Landmarks has signed a lease with the Cranbury Board of Education allowing the use of the building as a center for cultural, artistic and recreational activities.

Four of 11 available rooms have already been rented by Cranbury landmarks. The Princeton Ballet Society will use the auditorium for dance classes; Rutgers University Extension Division, the Murphy Art Gallery, and classes in Chinese brush painting will occupy three of the nine classrooms. These tenants are expected to open their doors by October 1.

The Old School, which dates from 1896 and has been designated a state and national historic site, contains about 9,600 square feet of usable space. The nine classrooms on the first and second floors have high ceilings and large and numerous windows. In the basement are a small auditorium and library. The building is structurally sound, although some exterior repairs are in order immediately.

Barbara F. Thomsen, of 13 South Main Street, Cranbury, a member of Cranbury Landmarks, submitted the following account of the group's goals and activities:

"Cranbury Landmarks has a two-pronged purpose at the moment: to help preserve the architectural heritage of our town and to bring to fruition a cultural center of high quality. To fulfill our first goal adequately we have retained the services of an eminent restoration architect, John Dickey of Media, Pennsylvania. He will guide us through the process of careful and authentic restoration of the Old School.

Inquiries Welcome. "In pursuit of our second goal, it will be necessary that artists and craftsmen in every field who live within a reasonable distance of Cranbury know of our project and consider it for studio, classroom, or workshop use. We are asking the assistance of people knowledgeable in the field of the arts to spread the word of our project.

"In this way we are hoping to have inquiries from creative people who might eventually sublet space in the Old School and thus help build the Cranbury Art Center into something of extraordinary value to our community and the surrounding area."

"We are quoting a rental fee of $3 per square foot per year. As a not-for-profit group, we will charge tenants only the maintenance and at least part of the renovation of the building.

"We have applied to the Federal government for matching funds for the restoration of the exterior of the building. Those funds should be available next spring. We also have a plan to apply to many foundations which would be interested in

"Baby Want a Kiss," Intime's Current Comedy, Touches Off A "Veritable Barrage of Laughter"

Summer Intime has added another hit to its current season with a superb production of James Costigan's "Baby Want a Kiss." The evening is a veritable barrage of laughter as the talented trio of actors, John Vennema, Giulia Pagano and E.E. Norris, romp their way through the often macabre, sometime sinister, but always hilarious festivities.

The play revolves about the visit of a famous Hollywood couple to the country home of a friend from whom they have been estranged for 15 years. Giolia Pagano is the aging Mavis, a throaty-voiced, moist-lipped vision of sensuousness, constantly coiling and uncoiling in her form-caressing lilac frock.

News Of The THEATRES

PRINCIPALS AT INTIME: Giulia Pagana and John Vennema have leading roles in the comedy "Baby Want a Kiss," continuing this weekend at Murray Theatre.

As her husband Emil, the wild fire of ego burning malevolently in his eyes, E.E. Norris is her fellow worshipper at the shrine of their beauty, their wealth and their magnificence as the epitome, the very apotheosis, of the American dream of success. John Vennema as Edward, the sentive poor soul upon whom they descend, becomes the focal point of their overweening egocentricity and the confessor-recipient of the whole catalog of their lurid lives and self-contradictory attitudes toward, and evaluations of, each other.

An air of foreboding lurks in the twilight shadows as their relationships are revealed in an almost outrageous parody of such prophets of darkness as Albee, Beckett, Pinter, et al. The play is saved from a sophomoric preciousness and is given a solid center by the playwright's beautifully orchestrated one-liners and his deft return to, and embellishments upon, them as the play rushes along.

To make all of this work takes not only fine acting, but good, solid, tight direction. Larry Strichman displays an unerring sense of pace and timing. His use of movement and stage business is faultless.

And above all, it is the sense of sport that he and the actors bring to "Baby Want a Kiss" that makes it so enjoyable for the audience. At its heart this play is an intellectual put-down of its materials, of dramatic treatment, and of the audience for taking the game seriously.

News of the Theatres

As for the general plot of the play, it would be unfair to say more about it. "Baby Want a Kiss" is a suspense comedy and should be allowed to unfold freshly before each audience. That is is a comedy, there can be no doubt. The smiles, snickers, guffaws and belly-laughs are there in uncountable numbers.

Mention must also be made of the set, designed by Richard Ferrugio (also an actor with the group), John Paine and Charles G. Stone II. Its vaulted ceiling and the medieval religious trappings heighten the Gothic horror quality of the story.

The final performances of "Baby Want a Kiss" will be given this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8:30 and Sunday at 7:30 at Murray Theatre on the Princeton campus. There is also a Midnight Cabaret, featuring musical and comedy entertainment, following the Saturday evening performance. Coffee, soda and set-ups are available.

The theatre is air-conditioned and seats 212. Since most shows are sold out by curtain time, it is advisable to call for reservations. The number is 452-8181, and the box office is open from 10 to 8 Monday through Saturday and 1 to 8 on Sunday.

KARL LIGHT RETURNING

To Intime Stage. Heading the cast in Summer Intime's fourth and final production of the 1974 season, James Goldman's comedy "The Lion in Winter," will be Karl Light as King Henry II and Scotty Block as Eleanor of Aquitaine.

Mr. Light will be returning to the Intime stage for the first time in 18 years. He was president of Intime while a student at Princeton and went on to play a number of roles in productions around the country, including Bertram Cates in the original Broadway production of "Inherit the Wind." Miss Bloch will be appearing at Intime after an absence of six years—she last actred in Murray Theater in the role of Mary Tyrone in Eugene O'Neill's "Long Days's Journey into Night" in 1968.

"The Lion in Winter" opens Thursday, August 15 and runs through August 18 and from August 22-25, in Murray Theater.

The three sons of Henry and Eleanor will be played by Richard Ferrugio (Richard the Lionhearted), E. E. Norris (Geoffrey) and Mitchell Ivers (Prince John). Alais, the French princess, will be played by Anne Louise Hoffmann, and her brother Philip, King of France, will be played by Robert Schmon.

"The Lion in Winter" will be directed by SI's Executive Director Daniel F. Berkowitz, not Edward Earle as previously announced. Mr. Berkowitz took over the direction of the show several weeks ago when Mr. Earle's new position as artistic director of Lambertville's Theatre in the Dome made it impossible for him to do the show at Intime.

"The Lion in Winter" will be the second show Mr. Berkowitz will have directed this summer—he staged the season opener, Shaw's "Arms and the Man" as well.

which she was naminated as Best Actress, along with Herbert Marshall, Teresa Wright, and Dan Duryea.

Wednesday's entry is "The Prince and the Showgirl," a 1957 film with the unlikely pairing of Laurence Olivier and Marilyn Monroe in the two title roles. Olivier also directed this hysterically funnmy film set in Victorian England, and the cast includes famed British stage actress Sybil Thorndike in one of her rare movie appearances.

Summer Intime's Midnight Cabaret enntinues this Saturday evening with an evening of music and comedy directed by Robert Schman. The locale is SI's Lower Room, the time is midnight, the doors open at 11:30 and the seating is strictly on a first-come, first-served basis.

This week's Cabaret will feature a number of comedy sketches from "Beyand the Fringe" as well as music. Performers tentatively scheduled to appear include John Vennema, Larry Stiebman, Robert Schmon, and other members of the SI company.

AUDITIONS SCHEDULED

For Thurber Play. Creative Theatre Unlimited will open its sixth season with the presentation of James Thurber's "Many Moons." The play, a modern day fairy-tale for children and adults, will be directed by Amie Brockway of the CTU staff.

Open auditions will be held August 14 and 15 at 7 p.m. at Christ Congregational Church, Walnut Lane. The cast will include 10 acting roles - five for women and five for men.

Ms. Brockway said that a few of the roles might be played by children between 10 and 14. Dramatized by Charlotte B. Sharpenning, the story takes place in the royal palace and revolves around the competitive and amusing "king-pleasing" antics of the royal household.

Ms. Brockway has been directing the Summer Creative Theatre workshops in Princeton and teaches acting techniques for adults and young people. In 1971, while a member of the McCarter Theatre staff, she initiated Street Theatre and directed that program for two years. This fall she will continue her work in the new professional theatre arts training program at Purchase, N.Y.

Rehearsals will be held on weekday evenings during September with the opening performance at Theatre in the Dome, Lambertville, September 21. The Princetan performance will be held September 28 at Trinity Chureb. For further information contact Ms. Brockway, 799-1689 or Pat Cline, CTU Managing Director, 921-9165.

PLAYERS TRY AGAIN

In Van Nest Park. The West Windsor Recreation Commission announces that Street Theatre will perform at Van Nest Park, Grover's Mill, Friday at 8:30.

The last productian scheduled at Van Nest Park was rained out. The portable stage had been set up and families who had braught a picnic supper were awaiting the performance when thunder and lightening forced a rusb to close-up the stage. A beavy rain storm followed.

The presentatian on Friday will include three winning scripts in Street Theatre's third annual original script competition. "Paradise" by Geoff Becker, directed by Katie Grimm, gives a different view of Heaven. Shades of the Marx Brothers, Abbot and Costello and other vintage comedy teams haunt "The Mysterious Case of the Maltese Peacock" written by Lee Whittenburg and John Negus. The third play, "Garbage," written and directed by James Beckerman, takes a nostalgic look at the gas shortage.

STREET THEATRE BUSY

With 4 Weekend Performances. Geoff Becker, John Mochel and James Beckerman, the three winning playwrights in Street Theatre's Original Script Contest, will be able to see their works performed four times this weekend, starting Thursday at 8:30 on the Princeton High School lawn.

The High School performance will be followed by performances at Van Ness Park Friday at 8:30; Riverside School Saturday at 8:30 and Palmer Square in front af al the Post Office at 8:30 an Sunday. The evening consists af a different look at the "happy hunting graunds," a detective story with a lat af familiar faces, and one man's solution to the energy crisis.

GARDEN

Going Places is an amoral, fairly entertaining (if you're young) French study of two youths out to live it up by stealing cars, robbing shops and generally interfering with every woman in sight. Its highly sexual content seems designed to attract rebellious young audiences at all costs.

The film is actually a young man's dream of life in which no work need be done, any girl is only too willing to slip off her clothes at the merest sign of interst and the middle classes are so stupid they can be gulled or held up with no feat of reprisal. Needless to say, what results is not very realistic, but the film does have a certain naivite and charm—if one can identify with the heros.

The "heroes" are two scraggly youths who mooch around Paris snatching purses and cars and terrifying uptight matrons. The only one who gets to them is a vacuous young blond, so mechanical in her love-making that she becomes something of a challenge for the pair.

They temporarily desert her for an older woman—played by Jeanne Moreau with the only hint of style in the film and the only name actor—but she commits suicide, sumewhat inexplicably, and the boys hurry back to their compliant doll.

At no time does the film ever stop to consider the lifestyle of the two boys or examine them. Indeed the film seems to be afraid that if it actually tried to find a point in all this, it wnuld lose its audience. Which may be true.

The humor, completely sexual, is occassionally amusing; more often, it is simply coarse and childish So is the film.

PLAYHOUSE

The Three Musketeers: This classic swashbuckler has been turned into one of the most entertaining films in years by English director Richard Lester. Overlaying its brisk pace is an oneading comedic touch ranging from sight gags to unrestrained slapstick.

The fabled musketeers are hardly the conventional gasning and chivalroos "one-for-allers," but each is a model of zesty bravado. And the cast is a collection of superb performers. Oliver Reed is the roogh-hewn Athos, Richard Chamberlain the well-groomed Aramis, and Frank Finlay the dandified Porthos. Their fidelity to the Queen (Geraldinw Chaplin) seems prompted maialy by the chance to live well and raise hell.

Action quickly sets in when young D'Artagean, beautifully polayed by Michael York, ventures to Paris and unwittingly insults each of the Mouseketeers in turn, starting with Lonnie and Dorreen and working his way down to Cubbie and Karen, who bite him on the leg

Playing villians are Faye Dunaway as the treacherous Milady and Raquel Welch, supremely apt as the Queen's clumsy confidante.

Along with a wealth of well-staged, if realistically clumsy, swordsmanship, the film piles on sight gags, one-line jokes and some of the best coordinated slaostick in ages. And without resorting to outright anachronisms, Lester has imbued the film with some pointed contemporary parallels, notably a funny, primitive form of political wiretapping. It's all a lot of fun.

PRINCE

Blazing Saddles. From the opening parody of its whip-cracking theme song sung by Frankie Lane, to the final fadeout, as a chauffeured limosine rides away from the Warner backlot into the sunset, this madcap collection by Mel Brooks of every cliche and convention to tumble across the range is an all-out, successful lampoon. Oh, it is disjointed, to be sure, and it has its share of clinkers but "Blazing Saddles" is more often hilarious; its anachronistic sight gags, quick skits, and one-liners are literally outrageous at times, but so side-splitting that Brooks gets away with it.

The nominal plot centers on the efforts of a villainous "State Procurer" to make a fortune off the new railroad by driving the citizens out of their town. He persuades the corrupt governor (Mel Brooks) to hire a black sheriff (Cleavon Little) to send the bigoted folks packing. Needless to say, Little, aided by a suave, alcoholic ex-gonfighter played by Gene Wilder, manages to beat off the baddies, whose frontier army includes rapists, gom chewers, Klansmen, Arabs, storm troopers and saddlebound Hell-s Angels.

ETS Answers "Raiders."
To the Editor of Town Topics:

In last week's issue of Town Topics, an article appeared which described a study of Educational Testing Service recently announced by three individuals, endorsed by Ralph Nader. ETS haa alwaya cooperated with individuals and groups interested in knowing ahout the organization and its activities.

We welcome scrutiny and constructive criticism from any source. Indeed, ETS contributed substantial staff time and effort over an 18-month perlnd to a 1972-73 study of Educational Testing Service, endorsed by Mr. Nader.

Although the group written up in Town Topics has provided us with only limited background material about their activities (much less than was reported in your article), we have sent them the puhlications they requested, and ETS officers and staff have met with them. Thus I and other ETS staff were puzzled and distressed to read their allegations of our refusal to cooperate.

The group's description of ETS's positinn with regard to interviews and questions was both inaccurate and premature. They have asked us to commit substantlal staff time (in large measure, through unlimited but otherwise unspecified staff interviews) and other resources.

Because we have a responsihility to those who pay for our services to ensure that such a financial commitment is carefully weighed, ETS has asked the group to provide us with more specific information about their purposes, the areas of inquiry, and their qualifications to undertake and execute a thorough, accurate, objective study, commensurate with the time and effort they are asking us to put into it.

Your readers should know, however, that we will continue, as we have in the past, to invite inquiries and to cooperate with individuals and groups who are interested in knnwing about ETS.

Director, Information Services

Mr. Bohen Replies
To the Editor of Town Topics:

My opponent, Millicent Fenwick, has criticized me (Town Topics, Aug. 1) for placing an ad in the July 24th edition of this newspaper which, in her view, unfairly charactrerized her position on the President's impeachment. The plain fact is that Mrs. Fenwick's public position on impeachment was vague and indefinite until July 22 when she had tn respond to my public invitation to discuss the subject.

In was vague and indefinite on July 17 when Mrs. Fenwick opened her campaign with n press conference in Morristown—as the news reports in the Trenton Times and other papers the following day demonstrates. It was vague and indefinite in Mr. Fenwick's primary campaign during which no explicit reference to Watergate, the President's conduct or his impeachability appeared anywhere in Mrs. Fenwick's literature, or in her paid radio and newspaper ads (or, for that matter, in her opponent's.)

My ad characterized that recent history sharply, but fairly, and I do not believe it was misleading. On the same day that the ad appeared, however, my opponent announced for the first time through the media that she favored the President's impeachment, a declaration that the press rightfully treated as news.

When Mrs. Fenwick and I met the press together at the joint news conference that I had proposed, my opponent amplified and expanded the basis on which she now supports the President's impeachment. The press again rightfully treated her views as news.

Although it came late in the day, I admire the judgment Mrs. Fenwick finally reached on these grave constitutional issues. The fact of our agreement enables us to turn our respective energies to other tough issues—inflation, ecoomic reform, arms control, energy, environmental protection, and renewed leadership for social justice at home. Ours will be a lively, intelligent and fair campaign, as we continue the dialogue so energetically begun last week. begun last week.

"I Was Misquoted"
To the Editor of Town Tnoics:

In the article on opinions of the impeachment of President Nixon in Town Topics of August 1, my point of view was totally misrepresented.

I believe that the President is guilty of crimes that no citizen, no matter what his rank and connections are, should commit or be allowed to get away with. In saying that I believed that the whole matter was "a shamc" (which was quoted out of context by Town Topics), I sympathized with the nation for having been put in a position where the impeachment of a Prcsident was necessary. I was not adding a "rare note sympathy for Mr. Nixon" or condoning his acts. The "shame" is that these acts took place at all—and it is good that the people of the United States have a recourse in impeachment.

I regret that my remarks were taken out of context to balance an otherwise one-sided finding.

historic preservation and cultural activities."

Parking Planned "No parking is available to us on the school grounds during school hours. To overcome this disadvantage, arrangements have been made with the First National Bank of Cranbury (across the street from the Old School) for use of 10 parking spaces in their parking yard.

"Of course, unlimited use of school parking facilities is available on offschool hours. Cranbury Landmarks, Inc. looks upon these school-hour parking arrangements as temporary and foresees the day in a year or two when more parking spaces can be built adjacent to the Old School."

"Because our budget limits our capacity to publicize the many particulars of our project, we must rely on the support and enthusiasm of friends, both new and old, in spreading the word and announcing the beginning of the Cranbury Art Center."

For more information, contact any of the Cranbury Landmarks members: Allen E. Burns, president, 655-2837; Mabubeh Stave, 395-0711; Clara Amend, 395-0224; Barbara Thomsen, 395-0693; Mary H. Morgan, 395-1610; Don Armstrong, 395-1692; Kate Shankweiler, 395-0878; and William L. Bunting, 921-2650.

CURRAN NAMED LEADER Of United Fund Division. Lowell F. Curran Jr. has been appointed chairman of the Professionals Division of the 1974 Princeton Area United Community Fund campaign, Fred Fields, campaign chairman, announced. Mr. Curran, a Princeton attorney, will direct that portion of the campaign involved in raising donations from architects, doctors, dentists, lawyers and other professionals, according to Mr. Fields.

This division annually produces a substantial share of the goal and is one of eight major divisions within the United Fund Campaign organization. For 1974, the Professionals Division has a goal of $37,000, which is about eight percent more than was raised last year.

Scheduled to begin October 1, the campaign will raise funds to support the 21 agencies that serve Cranbury, East Windsor, Griggstown, Hightstown, Kingston, Montgomery, Plainsboro, Princeton, Rocky Hill, West Windsor and adjacent areas of Hopewell, Lawrence and South Brunswick Townships.

Lowell F. Curran Jr.

Mr. Curran, who has been practicing law in the Princeton area for 15 years, is past president of the Princeton Bar Association and a former director of the Princeton Republican Club.

A native of New York City, he holds a Bachelor of Law degree from Columbia Law School and received his B.A. degree from the College of Holy Cross, Worcester, Mass. Mr. Curran and his wife, Barbara, have three children and live at 23 Braeburn Drive.

BENEFIT CARNIVAL SET For Muscular Dystrophy. A carnival to raise funds for the fight against muscular dystrophy will be held Sunday, August 18, from 2 to 5 at the Princeton-Windsor Apartments off Route 1 behind the Prince Theater.

A press release issued by the carnival's organizers states:

"Sharon, Lois, Johnny, Christopher, Kathy and Mitch are the main ringleaders. They are 5 to 10 years old. Special interest this year will be a puppet show with beautiful handmade puppets by Lois and John. The children have been collecting donations, white elephant items, books, bottles, arts and crafts. The wives of seminarians are baking cookies and helping in other ways."

IT'S NEW To Us

SEW FOR FALL

At The Fabric Shop. Once again the summer has flown by. In less than a month school will be opening and it is none too soon to begin sewing clothes for those youngsters who undoubtedly have grown several inches since June.

For 19 of its 20 years, The Fabric Shop on Chambers Street has believed in Peter Pan cottons. Although some of these are now a dacron blend, they are all permanent press and therefore perfect for children's clothes.

For fall these calico prints come with dark backgrounds. There is a tiny rose print on navy, a green and white stripe with small flowers in the stripe (it also comes in red or blue), a red or blue fabric with a tiny house and tree print, and a lavendar or blue printed with many letter A's — fat ones, thin ones, script or plain. This cotton fabric is 45 inches wide and costs between $2 and $2.50 a yard.

There are also cotton quiltings in calico prints, such as a patchwork or a red printed with small yellow and blue toys. Another print of tiny overall flowers on a background of red or navy has a matching unquilted fabric making it just right for a dress with a plain top and quilted skirt. The quilted fabrics are 45 inches wide and $3.50 a yard.

The Fabric Shop is known for its helpfulness. Everyone there sews and their suggestions never stop. For instance pinned to the cotton quiltings were several contrast bindings and children's patterns for jompers or bathrobes — just enough to trigger your thoughts.

Started 20 years ago by two sisters, Lucille Carnevale and Eleanor Nelson, this last January Mrs. Nelson sold her share of the business because she needed more flexible hours. Although Mrs. Carnevale is the sole owner now, the same friendly attitude prevails.

For instance, she didn't want us to miss the polyester plaids and solids that look and feel like wool, and yet because they are washable are perfect for children. The colors include a rust, blue, orange, and pretty green plaid (also good for a long bias cut skirt), 54 inches wide, $5 a yard.

Also for children's clothes there is permanent press Klopman fabric in a range of colors and a heavy brushed denim in plaids and prints.

Mosaic Cotton Satins. Another interesting fabric is the cotton satin which with its shine and softness can be used for a caftan. There is a series of four mosaic type prints of tones on tones in brown, red or blue -- all subdued with a natural earth feeling, 45 inches wide and $4.50 to $5 a yard. This fabric would also make a handsome tie.

"There is a legitimate shortage of wools and cottons. To find them at all today you are doing a lot of shopping," said Mrs. Carnevale.

AT THE FABRIC SHOP: Holding one of The Fabric Shop's heavy banlon prints is owner Mrs. Lucille Carnevale. This perticuler fabric has abstract gold, red and white lines on a black background, and it is the perfect fabric for many of the designer patterns that call for soft drapeable lines.

However, she has managed to get a good supply of wool knits and coatings.

The prettiest and softest fabric of all is a bright green or blue 50-50 wool and mohair coat fabric, and pinned to it was another suggestion — a Dior pattern for a wrap coat. We also saw wool coatings with a hard finish and these are just right for capes or loden coats as they can be unlined. The colors include a grey, purple, black, navy or red.

There is a beautiful lightweight pure wool dress crepe by J. P. Stevens in several colors, a few wool gabardines, Anglo wool knits in a range of colors, and many plaids and tweeds for fall suits, skirts or slacks.

The wools are 54 to 60 inches wide and range in price from $7 to $18 a yard depending upon whether it is an inexpensive flannel or a pure wool coating fabric. Although many of these fabrics are expensive, Mrs. Carnevale will help you avoid buying any extra fabric by laying out the pattern right there in the store. She also is helping you by leaving any old stock at the lower price even though the new higher priced bolt is the same item and quality.

Trevira Knits. The Trevira knits are great for suits or sportswear too and they come in great colors — teal blue, red, rust, copen, purple, kelly green, old rose, and beige, 60 inches wide and $8 to $10 a yard.

Mrs. Carnevale's favorite polyester knit is a handsome one with the look of natural raw silk, 72 inches wide and $10 a yard. The Fabric Shop also has raw silk in a gorgeous soft green or orange and in natural.

For those Jean Nuir and Stan Herman designs that require a drapeable fabric, The Fabric Shop has a heavy weight banlon in a rainbow of colors. This same heavy banlon is also available in some sophisticated prints.

One pattern has wavy wide stripes of camel, grey and brown which are crossed by dark brown and white twisted lines; another has abstract gold, white and red lines spaced out on a black background; and a third is black with an overall pattern of white scrolls and sunbursts. All the banlon is 60 inches wide, and the cost is $8 for the solids and $11 for the prints.

Some more magnificent prints can be seen among the heavy polyester prints, and we had several favorites here. One with a look of waterec silk comes in three differeni pastel combinations, all of which have been hand done. Another is a bold flower print of hot pink, purple, green and orange on a very white hackground — it would be most effective in a long dress and usuable almost year round. These prints are 45 inches wide and range in price from $6 to $12 a yard.

The Fabric Shop also has all kinds of sewing books, notions, trims, and linings including a wide color range of the Skinner sunback. The store is at 14 Chambers Street and the hoors are from 9:30 to 5 Monday through Saturday.

Book on Mini-Trips From Central New Jersey Offers Solutions For Leisure-Time Problems

Anyone under the impression that the only automobile assembly lines are in Detroit, or that windmills are only in Holland, or that you have to travel to Milwaukee to tour a brewery, ought to browse through a new pocket-sized guidebook published by two area women. All of the above plus lots more is available right here in Central New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania, within a 50-mile radius of Princeton.

The book is entitled "Away for a Day—Mini-Trips From Central New Jersey." The authors are Pat Varvel, 42 Sturges Way, and Linda Long, Jamestown Road, Belle Mead.

The authors' purpose in writing the book is simply stated: "Americans are fortunate in having so much leisure time. . .except on those days when it rains. . .or there's no school. . .or the houseguests decide to stay an extra day. Then the plaintive cry is heard, 'What can we do now?' For an answer to that question, we offer this book."

They provide literally hundreds of alternatives. For example:

Black River and Western Railroad—A full-sized and fully restored steam railroad train operating over 12 miles of track in Flemington.

The Quarry on Crusher Road in Hopewell—"A natural swimming hole is formed in an old quarry. Numerous diving boards, rafts, large wading pool."

Buxtons in Jamesburg—"A half-hour tour shows how frozen food products (onion rings, fried chicken, soup, ice cream, sherbets) are made. A delicious conculsion with make-your-own sundae. Birthday party groups welcomed."

Morris County Central Railroad in Whippany—"A 1907 steam engine gives a 45-minute, 8-mile ride aboard open flat cars, coaches, or a red caboose 'Wild West' style hold-up. . .Museum with railroad memorabilia. . ."

General Motors plant at Linden—"In a one-hour tour, groups are led two-by-two along assembly lines. . . The pre-planning, synchronization and sequence in this amazing assembly line production are definitely impressive. No cameras allowed."

"Ringing Rocks" in Upper Black Eddy—"Four acres of large boulders in a tumbled mass. Because of the unusual crystal structure, rocks produce a ringing tone when hit with hammer. Look for rocks somewhat suspended and free from solid contact with soil. Rubber-soled shoes recommended."

Schaefer Brewery, Lehigh Valley, Pa.—"America's oldest lager beer is brewed here in one of the most modern brewing facilities. View the many processes along tour route with special guide. Invited to Stein Room at conclusion of one-hour tour. Organized groups by advance arrangement."

The authors wisely ignore the heavily traveled tourist areas such as the Poconos and the large cities, New York and Philadelphia. They have included only a sampling of historical sites and point out that other publications are available for those interested in those sites in detail.

Instead they concentrate on out-of-the-way places of interest and public and private recreation ventures. Listings include times of the year sites are open, hours and days of operation; fees charged (many are free or ask for donations); and information on appointments, reservations and telephone numbers.

Call Ahead! The authors write: "From experience, we strongly suggest a call prior to leaving. . .It could be the one time all year the place is closed for some unforseen reason. Explaining the 'CLOSED' sign to a carload of excited children just once guarantees a phone-call ahead the next time."

"Away for a Day" is available at bookstores or from the authors: c-o Panda, Box 1158, Princeton. The price is $3.

GROUP SEEKS COUPONS

For Autistic Care. The Princeton Child Development Institute, an organization dedicated to helping autistic children, is seeking community support to purchase a van for use in field trips and for transportation to and from the school.

The PCDI, which is attempting to expand its activities, is currently housed in Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street.

The Institute hopes to acquire the van through Betty Crocker coupons. They can be found on the boxtops of many General Mills products, such as Softasilk, cake and frosting mixes, Lucky Charms, Hamburger Helper, muffin mixes or potato mixes. Persons with coupons may donate them to Ann Martin, 100 Dodds Lane, ur Trinity Church. Thousands of coupons are needed.

A DAY FOR MIGRANTS

At YM-YWCA. The second in the series of six Sunday socials planned for migrant workers will be held August 11 at the YM-YWCA Avalon Place. It will be jointly sponsored by the Princeton chapter of Hadassah and the Friends Society.

Migrant workers and their families will spend the afternoon and evening at the Y facilities, where they are invited to swim and take part and crafts activities. A turkey dinner will be served.

Call Mrs. Ralph Tartar, 924-4492, to make food or give money as a donation. Volunteer drivers are also needed. Anyone able to donate swimming suits or arts and crafts supplies should mark them "For Migrants' Sunday Socials," and leave them at YM-YWCA before Sunday.

BIDDING ON RINKS SET

Will Be Built In W. Windsor. Plans for the ice skating rinks to be built in Mercer County Central Park in West Windsor will go out to bid on Thursday, August 15, the Mercer County Park Commission has announced.

The two new rinks, protected from inclement weather and equipped for making artificial ice, have been designed by Richard J. Chorlton Architects, Princeton.

According to Richard J. Coffee, President of the Mercer County Park Commission, the new county recreational facility will answer the need for rinks that can be utilized regardless of weather conditions. There was no outdoor skating here last winter and only three days in 1973.

Pharmacy Footnotes

by Mel Atlas, Reg. Pharm

Space medicine discoveries have resulted in new medical tools which are of value to all people. For example, tiny instruments attached to the astronauts to keep track of their breathing, heartbeat, and so on during space flights, are now being used in hospitals to help busy nurses know which patients need extra care. Space suits have also been used to help bedridden people, victims of stroke or of blood pressure diseases, to walk again. Another important frontier of course, is underwater research. To gain a better understanding of man's ability to survive in difficult environments is to give medicine a better understanding of man's capabilities.

Prescriptions are our specialty at FORER PHARMACY, 160 Witherspoon. The finest selection of patent medicines, pharmaceutical supplies and convalescent aids will always be found on our well stocked shelves. We're open Mon. thru Sat. from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sundays till 3 p.m. Phone 921-7287.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

I Bet You Didn't Know Brought To You By John Bernard

Who are the five highest paid athletes in America today?...It's estimated that the top five are Wilt Chamberlain, Bill Walton and Nate Archibald from basketball, Larry Csonka from football and Bobby Hull from hockey.

A little-remembered fact is that before the World Football League started battling the National Football League this year, four other football leagues challenged the NFL down through the years...Back in 1926, there was an American Football League that lasted one year; another American Football League came into being in 1936 and lasted two years; in 1946, the All-America Conference fought the NFL and lasted four seasons; and in 1960 another American Football League was established and lasted until a merger with the NFL six years later.

Here's a baseball oddity...Today, the average big league baseball pitcher hurls a complete--game going the full 9 innings--about 25 percent of the time--but Hall of Famer Cy Young completed the unbelievable total of over 90 percent of all his starts!...Young started 816 games in his career and pitched 750 complete games--going the route 92 percent of the time!

I bet you didn't know that you need a special insurance card if you are going to Quebec, Canada this summer. This includes the Maritime provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Arcadia, and Prince Edward Islands.

ETS IN DRIVER'S SEAT

Tops Business Softball. Educational Testing Service has virtually assured itself a first-place finish in regular season play in the Princeton Business Softball League by beating Ingersoll Rand Research 26-3 while Cities Service Research lost for the second straight week.

Bill Degler's grand slam homer in a 4-5 night at bat was the feature of the ETS game, with ETS looking forward to its final contest against Cities Service this week, and the playoffs thereafter. Other home runs for ETS were hit by Rich Limato and Jerry Murphy, while Willie Turner and winning pitcher Jerry Kramer batted 3-4.

North American Phillips Lighting needed to beat Cities Service to get into the playoffs, and with Cities Service coming off a surprise loss to RCA (A), the outlook appeared bleak for Norelco. However, a tremendous defensive effort by Norelco plus a home run by Mount Vernon Washington gave it a 14-8 victory and the playoff berth. Ken Cichocki homered for the losers, who now move down to third place.McGraw Hill rode past Forrestal Research Center, 8-4, on the 3-3 hitting of Len Biase, and Dave Sands' 3-4 form. The winning pitcher for McGraw-Hill was Ang Vasti, whose efforts on the mound have left McGraw-Hill in sole possession of second place.

McGraw's last opponent of the season, First National Bank, was hit for nine runs in the first inning by Firmenich, which went on to win, 12-6. Firmenich's defense never allowed the First National to gain any momentum, dropping First National into a tie with Cities Service for third. Bill Faulkner had a 3-4 night for Firmenich, and Jerry Shuren hit 2-3 in a game which saw no home runs by either side.

Al Blumberg's three-run homer with two out in the bottom of the seventh sparked Geophysical Fluid Dynamics Labs to a 12-11 triumph over ERC. Russ Sinclair maintained his consistently good hitting with another three-run homer for GFDL, batting 3-4 with 4 rbi's for the night.

RCA (A) took on RCA (B) in the annual renewal of the Sarnoff Series, and emerged victorious, 13-6. Hank Hood put one over the fence for the "A" team to cap a 4-4 night at the plate. Ron Henderson was the winning pitcher, and Greg Olson hit a homer for the "B" team.

National Computer Analysts hit four homers to top United Jersey Banks, 19-15, in a big victory for NCA. John Raimondi had two of the four baggers, and team-mates Lee Campbell and Steve Giannone one each, giving pitcher Pat Hutton his third win of the season. Dick Morbee hit a home run for UJB. Princeton Day School bounced back from last week's loss to First National Bank to defeat American Cyanamid, 9-3.

With one week left in the regular season, the standings were:

• National Boys' 18 and 16 Tennis Championships being held through Sunday at Kalamazoo College.

More than 300 of the top young players in the United States are participating in the event, which is considered the most important junior tournament in the world. It has served as the proving ground for such tennis greats as Rod Laver, Stan Smith and 1974 Winbledon champion Jimmy Connors. This is the 33rd consecutive year that Kalamazaoo has hosted the event.

TOP SEED WINS

In Women's Doubles. The top-seeded pair of Betty Constable and Nina Moyers last week won the Princeton Open Women's Doubles tournament. Forty-seven teams participated.

Constable-Moyers defeated Joyce Clark and Rosemary Lewis in the finals, 6-3, 6-0. In the semi-finals they won from Enid Woodworth and Robbie Ross, 6-2, 6-1, as they lost only 12 games in the entire tournament.

In the other semi match, Laura Goldfeld and Frankie Hutner bowed to Lewis-Clark, 6-3, 6-7, 6-3. In an upset at the start of the tournament, Jackie Ockerlander and Nina Jackson, unseeded, defeated the no. 4 seeds, Brenda Campbell and B. J. Sklar, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4. Patty Wall and Peggy Warner, seeded third, were eliminated in the second round by Woodworth-Ross, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

WOMEN DOUBLES FINALISTS: Betty Constable (left) and Nina Moyer defeated Joyce Clark (far right) and Rosemary Lewis last week to win the Princeton Open Women's Doubles. Mrs. Constable and Mrs. Moyers, seeded first, lost only 12 games in the entire tournament.

Medical Center. "We can play that well," said the women employees who quickly organized a team and met the men last week at the Valley Road School.

The women were right. They defeated the PMC men, 23-21, with nearly 100 spectators on hand to witness the event.

The women hospital employees are now investigating the possibility of forming a women's softball league for next year. The women also indicated they would be willing to play the men again next year. The men presumably will have to issue the challenge.

PLAYOFFS NEAR END

In Adult Softball. In a Jekyll and Hyde softball finale, Conte-Staats roared back Monday from a second game defeat to take a 2-1 lead in the best three-of-five final series for the Adult Softball League championship.

Over the past few years, the league has grown in stature as a reflection of the calibre of players now in action. This summer is no exception, as both Ivy Inn and CS have demonstrated a high degree of softball ability in all three games.

The first contest brought the two teams together with hot bats. Ivy had just demolished Teague and Hinds in two straight and CS had defeated the Italian-American Sportsmen in two.

As early as the first inning, CS started pecking away with two quick runs on Scotty Anderson's single. Conte-Staats added one in the fourth and two in the fifth as Ivy Inn just couldn't get the bats going. Going into the top of the seventh, CS had managed to build up a 5-0 lead; Ivy scored once in that inning, but produced only five hits for the entire game and lost, 5-1. Scott Anderson and Doug Ruhlman had perfect nights at the bat for CS.

Tables Turned. When the teams met Thursday for the second night of battle at Community Park, it was Ivy that took command of the game with aggressive hitting. Conte-Staats produced a tally in the first, but Ivy exploded for six runs in the bottom of the inning on hits by George McVaugh, Rich Volz, Bucky Boccanfuso, Walt Brower and Albie Toto.

Down 6-1, CS immediately came storming back to tie the score in the top of the second as Wes Cawley's line shot with loaded bases eluded the Ivy outfielders, resulting in four runs. Ivy again put together runs in bunches as the outcome of the game began to take shape in the fourth inning.

Consecutive hits by Bobby Kleck, Walt Brower, Albie Toto and Jesse Tamasi paved the way for a five-run inning and an 11-6 lead. Conte-Staats could not rise to the occasion for a second comeback, although CS second baseman Mark Hassan contributed a round-tripper in the seventh inning for CS's last run.

Ivy scored 11 runs on 12 hits. CS was stopped on numerous occasions by fine fielding on the part of Ivy pitcher Tony Pirone. Ivy hitting attack was led by Albie Toto, who also played a standout game at shortstop.

Ivy Routed on Monday. In game three, Ivy drew first blood by scoring in the first inning. When CS tied it up in the first, Ivy scored three runs in the second, taking advantage of some sloppy CS play with daring baserunning.

With a 4-1 lead, the roof fell in on Ivy. Conte-Staats blasted 16 hits in the next two innings to tally 14 runs for a 15-4 lead. Although Ivy bounced back in the sixth with three, CS immediately responded with five more in its half of the sixth. By the end of the evening, CS had 25 hits and a 20-7 victory. Conte-Staats worked more to the power alleys in the third game in an attempt to stay away from hot fielding Tony Pirone. The strategy worked as the CS attack was far more successful than in game two. The fourth meeting between the two finalists was scheduled for Tuesday night, with a fifth Wednesday if needed.

FOUR TEAMS UNBEATEN

In West Windsor Tennis. Three weeks ago, at the start of the West Windsor Recreation Commission's evening doubles tennis leagues, there were 26 teams looking for that elusive goal—an undefeated season. Now, after three weeks, only four teams have a chance to attain that goal.

In the women's league, there are two, the "Volleys" and the "Loves," with the possibility of an undefeated season. Only one has a chance to complete this goal, since they are scheduled to face each other on August 20. Meanwhile, there is only one all-winning team in each of the men's leagues: the West Windsor Mets and the West Windsor Yanks.

The "Volleys," made up of Derrith Kavanaugh, Kathy Murray and Richela Bobeck, made it three straight this past week by overcoming the "Sets," composed of Bellena Keleman, Ann Nook and Donna Smith, 6-2, 6-2. The "Loves" continued their all-winning season by defeating the "Faults."

The "Loves" are made up of Peg Miller, Jean Keller and Jill O'Donnell, while the Faults are composed of Dixie Curtice, Pat Fallon and Phyllis Sobelman. The scores were 6-2, 6-3. It was the Faults' first loss of the season and left them tied with the Sets, who also lost their first game, for third place in league with four points each, while the leaders have six points each.

In the early men's league, the Mets, made up of Gordon Hart and Bernt Midland, has six points, with three teams tied for second with four each. These are the Cubs (Ed Jordi, Jay Sexton and Sam Shuren); the Phils (Rich Gordon, Janis Ziedonis and Tony Zuccarello); and the Braves (Nick Rzewsky, Pat Summers and Bob Zochowski).

The undefeated team in the late men's league, the Yanks, consits of James Cho, Ray Giudice and Larry Kole. There are four teams tied for second: the Padres (Jim Carroll, Bob Halpin and Harry Wyckoff) the Indians (Marty Birnbaum, Joe Campion and Bob Miller); the Pirates (Lee Cassady, Hank Hochman and Gary Fallon), and the Senators (Garland Asher, Lew Coleman and John Perlitz). The Yanks have six points and the four second place teams have four each.

POST 76 TRIUMPHS

In PYBA Playoff. Exploding for nine runs in the top half of the first inning, Post 76 defeated Engine Co. 1, 11-1, in a playoff for the PYBA Little League Championship. Both teams had ended the regular season with 11-3 records to create the one-game playoff last Saturday for the title.

Exhibiting the hitting strength shown all season, Post 76's first four batters, Jan Broadwater, Sean Cavanaugh, Chip Kleiber, and Mark Pittman hit safely. A series of walks followed and then Broadwater, up for the second time in the inning, cleared the bases with a three-run double and scored on Cavanaugh's second single.

Staked to nine runs before he took the mound, Post 76's pitcher Chip Kleiber gave up hits in every inning, but allowed only one runner to score and struck out six along the way.

Brent Robinson and Tim Hunt in relief of Peter Sharpless silenced the Post 76 bats over the last five inning. Sharpless and Paul Heinzel had two hits apiece and Judd Petrone, Mike Thompson and Peter Versfeld completed the seven-hit total. Petrone and Hugh Gordon contributed two fine defensive plays in the outfield for Engine Co. 1.

Pittman, with a perfect four-for-four day, Broadwater with three hits and Cavanaugh with two led Post 76. Kleiber, John Cifelli, Peter Nelson and Dave Descateau rounded out the 13-hit attack. Post's infield continually came up with the big plays – Kleiber stopping everything up the middle, Cavanaugh spearing a liner at his shoe tops and Don Johnson diving to tag out a stealing runner.

Individual Trophies. At the post-game presentation ceremony, League Director George Ferguson and PYBA President Dean Chace presented the runner-up trophy to Coach Teunis Eversen of Engine Co. 1. The championship trophy was awarded to Post 76 Coach Jack O'Neill. Commissioner Jack Petrone handled play-by-play and announced the awards before a large group of fans.

Members of the winning Post 76 team, each of whom received individual trophies, include Ian Broadwater, Sean Cavanaugh, John Cifelli, Philip Corwin, David Descateau, Gabriella DiBianco, John Di Bianco, Doug Ferguson, Don Johnson, Chip Kleiber, Brian Levine, Lewis Levine, Tom Lion, Clark Lippincott, James Lo, Peter Nelson, John Perone, Terrence Phox, Mark Pittman, Andy Root, and Doug Thompson.

AREA BANKS EXAMINED

On Loan Policies. The Joint Commission on Civil Rights has queried six area banks and savings and loan associations to determine their policies in granting credit to women.

The Commission, directed by Joan E. Hill, concluded: "The data indicate that the credit policies of the local banks and lending institutions in most instances do not discriminate against women for reasons of sex or marital status. However, in the real world, policies and practices do not always agree. Men or women who have reason to believe they have been discriminated against for reasons of sex or marital status should contact the Commission at 4 Green Street, 924-7138."

Last December the Commission began its investigation by sending written inquiries to six Princeton financial institutions: First Jersey Savings; First National Bank of Princeton; Nassau Savings and Loan; New Jersey National Bank of Princeton; Princeton Bank and Trust Company; and Princeton Savings and Loan.

The Commission then asked each institution a series of four questions. All six replied that they would grant mortgage loans to a family where the wife's income is the sole source of support. All six also said they would grant mortgage loans to single, divorced or widowed women.

Four of the six lending institutions said they would give full credit to the wife's income in determing the size of a mortgage applied for by a working couple. New Jersey National Bank of Princeton replied that it considers the wife's income as a "major contributor." Princeton Savings and Loan said, according to the Commission, that it "does not always give full credit for the wife's income and will normally discount 50 percent if she is of child-bearing age."

The Commission also asked the three commercial banks if they would require the husband's signature in addition to the wife's, if she were the applicant for a commercial loan and even though she had an independent income fully meeting the ability to repay.

The Commission summarized the banks' responses as follows: "On loans of this nature these three banks usually require the signatures of both husband and wife where jointly held assets play an important part in the credit decision although these banks will, on occasion, make loans which require only the wife's signature if she has an independent source of income."

In the finals last week in Lehigh Valley play, she won in straight sets with the loss of only three games over second-seeded Stephanie Kester. In the semi-finals, Natalie upset the tournament favorite, first-seeded Sally Zasloff, 6-2, 0-6, 6-1.

Vera Jesser took the 14-and-under title when she won from Jill Davis, 6-3, 6-0. Unseeded Carrie Balcomb reached the finals in the 16-and-under tournament when she recorded a three-set victory over Sally Wilson. Vera lost in the championship round, 6-1, 6-1, to Carla Gagnon.

Danny Aronovic reached the boys' 16-and-under final, with a 6-4, 2-6, 6-3 triumph over Keith Usiskin in the semis but dropped a three-hour match in the final round to Robert Cummings. Usiskin reached the semi-final round with an upset victory over Jeff Lyle. The score was 6-3, 6-2.

MORE ARRESTS MADE

At Shopping Center. Township Police arrested three juveniles in separate shoplifting incidents at two Shopping Center stores.

Two 15-year old girls, one from Montgomery Township and one from Princeton, were apprehended July 29 in the ladies' lounge of Bamberger's by Mrs. Constance Ware, store security officer. Mrs. Ware charged that the two took two bathing suits and a sweater, valued at $50, into a dressing room and hid them in a box.

She followed the pair into the ladies' room and detained them. Sgt. Anthony Pinelli, juvenile officer, later released them in custody of their parents.

Center Stationers. That same day a 12-year old boy from Hopewell Township was observed by Manager Joseph Grazel of Center Stationers. The boy examined many toys on the shelves and placed one box, priced at about $10, aside on a counter.

The manager said the boy then tried to leave with the toy. He was taken to the police and turned over to his parents.

COMMUNITY PARK AGAIN

$115 in Cash. This story is always the same. Only the names and amount of money taken need to be changed from week to week.

Cheryl Brotherton, of RD 1, Skillman, reported the theft August 1 of $111 in bills and $4 in change from her wallet, which was in her purse, which was under a sweater on the front seat of her car, which she thought she had locked when she parked it at the Community Park School lot.

The woman didn't know the wallet had been stolen until she was notified by police, who found the discarded wallet minus money lying next to a fence by the parking lot.

"There will always be people who will take advantage of an opportunity like this," said Township Police Chief Fred Porter. "We patrol the area as heavily as we can, but we cannot put patrol cars there 24 hours a day."

TOWN TOPICS is delivered without charge to every home in Princeton Borough and Township and to part of all of West Windsor, Lawrence, Hopewell, Montgomery, South Brunswick and Franklin Townships and Griggstown. At all newsstands, including TOWN TOPICS' office, it costs 15c.

Improve your ad vantage
by Ron Showalter
New Jersey Bell
Yellow Pages Representative

"How big should my ad be?"

Time and time again I'm asked that question. The answer is simple: big enough to earn its keep.

Advertisements short on information needed to help the reader make a buying decision are a waste of money, no matter how little they cost.

While this is true of all advertising, it is especially important in your Yellow Pages advertising.

Since a half-page is the largest unit sold to anyone, ad size can be used to say a lot about the bigness of your business. Even if your budget is modest, you can still afford to give your message the same feeling of importance as the bigger guys.

With the Yellow Pages often being the last step prior to purchase, there's still another reason why it's the right place to give yourself the right space.

You'll need space enough to answer such key reader questions as: Do you carry the brand I need or want? Are you open nights or weekends? Where are you located? Will you travel to or deliver to my town? What clues can I get to your reputation? What makes you different from your competitors?

The advertiser who answers these questions best has the best chance of getting new business.

Yellow Pages representatives are always ready to help you find the right size ad to tell your story best. There's no charge for this extra service, so you might as well take advantage of their experience and expertise.

One in a series prepared for business people who want to get more for their advertising dollar. A service of Yellow Pages

GOLD MEDALLION TOTAL ELECTRIC LIVING

Privacy in an unprivate world.

The private world of Regents Park. Privacy is basic to every Regents Park Cluster Home. The homes are set in unique clusters, four or six to a group. Although the neighbors are close at hand, you get the feeling you live in a separate home. Buffer walls, thick insulation and wall to wall carpeting filter out noise from adjoining homes.

Make it your own private neighborhood. Move with your friends to Regents Park, and make good friends good neighbors. Share our privacy.

Five very private floor plans. All five of our floor plans have one-floor convenience and privacy. Choose two or three bedrooms, one or two baths. And some homes have a fireplace. All with central air conditioning, washer and dryer, double-door refrigerator/freezer, dishwasher and disposal. Continuous cleaning oven.

Privacy, not isolation. All the privacy you want, only 10 minutes from Cherry Hill, four blocks from the restored charm of the colonial shops of Mount Holly. Lighted bicycle paths, a swimming pool and kids' play areas.

Low cost, high value per square foot. Regents Park beats every other home for value, with less cost per square foot than a single ranch home.

Directions: I-295 to 541 Exit or New Jersey Turnpike to Exit 5 (Mount Holly 541). 2 miles east on 541 to 4th traffic light, turn right on Levis Drive to Regents Park. Samples open daily 11-7. Phone 609-261-1146.
